

Both negative motivation and positive motivation are essential. We need to be in touch with suffering of conditioned existence (samsara) to give us the willingness to leave samsara behind. We need enough of a taste of freedom to inspire us to try something different.

*negative motivation:
sadness, disgust,
determination to end
suffering*

